

The Dallas Mavericks remain committed to keeping the team in the City of Dallas.

The Mavericks long-term vision is to develop a best-in-class sports and entertainment district anchored by a new multi-purpose arena, team training facility and corporate headquarters, along with a complementary hotel, public gathering space and mixed-use development that includes retail, restaurants, office space and housing.

The project requires more than 50 acres of contiguous land to deliver the kind of transformational 365-day a year destination that creates the vibrancy and meaningful economic and community impact we envision.

We appreciate the level of engagement the City continues to show and look forward to furthering our discussions to see if downtown could be the home for this project.

Because those discussions have not reached the level of detail required to support a responsible and credible submission, it is premature to submit a draft concept at this time.

Our focus remains unchanged: continuing to work collaboratively with the City of Dallas to identify the best long-term solution in Dallas for the Mavericks, the City and its residents.
