

Good afternoon,

I hope you and yours are safe and well. Protests continued on Monday and are expected to continue today. I want to give you an update on what we've learned, as well as provide you with the latest information regarding COVID-19 and the temporary location for Fire Station 41.

Protest Update

This afternoon I attended the peaceful protest outside of City Hall with several of my fellow councilmembers, followed by a press conference with Governor Abbott, Mayor Johnson, Mayor Price and Chief Hall among others. I was proud to hear the governor and both mayors commit to begin working immediately on policy actions to address concerns raised by these protests. I know that change has been slow to come for many residents who need it most, and I promise to listen and be part of the solution to create an equitable city, state and nation.

Chief Hall reiterated at her press conference earlier this morning that DPD is committed to allowing peaceful protests to continue. She did remind everyone that peaceful protesters who break the law will still be arrested and cited. As for the protesters who blocked the Margret Hunt Hill Bridge last night, DPD asked that they please leave the bridge. Those who chose not to leave the bridge when asked had their information collected and will be charged with highway obstruction at a later date due to capacity issues at the jail. Only one protester on the bridge was arrested, and this was for possession of an illegal handgun. 17 people were arrested for violation of curfew last night.

This afternoon the City Manager expanded the curfew zone to include the Trinity Groves area and West Village. I am including the updated ordinance and map here. The Office of Emergency Management is working to use their system to get text messages out to residents.

We encourage all residents and visitors to be mindful of the curfew and comply to ensure we may continue to keep residents, business owners & employees, peaceful demonstrators, and first responders safe. Residents or employees who live or work in the curfew area should be prepared to show proof of residency or work credentials if they need to travel in or out of the area while curfew is in effect.

Police continue to receive inquiries about bricks or other items which may be used for vandalism, but most of these reports are unsubstantiated rumors. Please use the iWatchDallas app to report any materials which may be cause for concern.

Another gathering at DPD Jack Evans HQ at 5pm has been shared on social media.

DPD has supplied us with the following information regarding arrests made since the protests began last Friday through this morning. This includes the residence of those arrested, race and sex. Arrest information.
