CITY OF DALLAS

DATE April 3, 2020

TO Honorable Mayor and Council Members

SUBJECT S&P Global Ratings Revises Convention Center Bonds Outlook to Negative Amid COVID-19 Impact – RATING ACTION

Today, S&P Global Ratings (S&P) affirmed the 'A' rating and revised the outlook to Negative from Stable on the Civic Center Convention Complex Revenue Refunding and Improvement Bonds (Convention Center bonds). The S&P rating outlook action on hospitality bonds was included in their review of, "bonds secured by hospitality taxes (including hotel occupancy taxes and sales taxes on prepared food and beverage sales)," amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

According to S&P, the rating outlook actions on the hospitality sector credits, "reflects our view that the affected credits face at least a one-in-three likelihood of a negative rating action over the intermediate term," continuing that, "while our priority lien criteria assumes a baseline level of revenue volatility, which we believe is moderate for most hotel taxes, we believe that the sudden economic stop will have an extreme negative impact on pledged revenue."

Referring to revenue declines per available room at hotels during the Great Recession and in 2009, S&P expects further decline presently, assuming that, "revenue per available room in the U.S. will decline 20% to 30% in 2020, but more severely in the second and third quarters." S&P previously affirmed the Convention Center bonds 'A' rating and revised the outlook to Stable on January 16, 2017, "removing the bonds from CreditWatch with negative implications, where they had been placed Dec. 13, 2016."

Attached is the rating action commentary provided by S&P today. If you have any questions or need further information, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Hospitality Sector Rating Outlook Revised To Negative Amid COVID-19 Impact

April 3, 2020

FARMERS BRANCH (S&P Global Ratings) April 3, 2020--S&P Global Ratings revised the outlook to negative from stable and affirmed numerous long-term ratings and underlying ratings on bonds secured by priority-lien tax revenue pledges. The outlook revision and rating action are taken on bonds secured by hospitality taxes (including hotel occupancy taxes and sales taxes on prepared food and beverage sales). The negative outlook reflects our view that the affected credits face at least a one-in-three likelihood of a negative rating action over the intermediate term (generally up to two years).

As the COVID-19 pandemic persists and the social risk from the spread of the virus grows, the implications on the leisure and hospitality sector have been acute and dramatic. Restrictions on travel and consumer activity--driven by social distancing and stay-at-home orders intended to flatten the curve and slow the viral infection rate--have led to hotel booking cancellations and deferrals, convention and conference cancellations, and the widespread closure of bars and restaurants. Although the closure decisions are prudent, in our opinion, the health and safety aspect of this action in the near term will materially affect coverage, financial results, and liquidity, which we believe might deteriorate further as a result of the onset of a global recession, and is reflective of our analysis of environmental, social, and governance risks. While the precise impact on bonds secured by hotel occupancy taxes and by sales taxes on prepared food and beverages is unknown, we believe that the decline in pledged revenue will be precipitous and likely last well into the second quarter.

With almost 200 million Americans either under shelter-in-place orders or being urged to stay at home in a concerted effort to contain the spread of COVID-19, we believe that the longest economic expansion in U.S. history has come to an abrupt end. (See "It's Game Over For The Record U.S. Run; The Timing Of A Restart Remains Uncertain," published March 27, 2020 on RatingsDirect.) S&P Global Economics now forecasts a global slowdown in GDP growth, with a base case assumption of a 1.3% decline in U.S. GDP in 2020 and annualized declines of 2.1% in the first quarter and 12.7% in the second quarter. We also believe that there is a high risk to credit if the coronavirus outbreak widens substantially in the U.S., with the impact being a protracted and more prolonged period of coronavirus-containment measures that further amplify the current U.S. economic recession.

While our priority lien criteria assumes a baseline level of revenue volatility, which we believe is moderate for most hotel taxes, we believe that the sudden economic stop will have an extreme negative impact on pledged revenue. Revenue per available room at hotels declined for 19 consecutive months during the Great Recession, and by 17% in 2009. S&P Global Ratings assumes that revenue per available room in the U.S. will decline 20% to 30% in 2020, but more severely in the second and third quarters. We also expect restaurant sales to decline substantially, particularly for casual diners, as more people eat at home and are commuting less or not at all, and as the economic slowdown reduces propensity to spend for food away from home. (See "Various Ratings Actions Taken On 34 Companies In The Lodging And Leisure Sector" and "Coronavirus Dramatically Increases Risk For Already Stressed Retail And Restaurant Sectors," published March 20, 2020.)

In cases where taxes pledged are in combination with other more stable revenue streams, we have not included those bonds in this rating action because we believe the other revenue streams, such as personal income taxes and broad-based sales taxes, will attenuate the impact. In our view, any potential rating actions will likely result from the magnitude of declines in pledged revenue (be it hotel taxes, food and beverage taxes, or other hospitality tax revenue) stemming from the abrupt and sharp decline in economic activity related to COVID-19 and the ensuing recession. We will also consider the access to, and need for, any additional liquidity to ensure timely payment on rated debt as well as the depth and breadth of the recovery, whenever it may occur, as part of potential rating actions.

The Content shall not be used for any unlawful or unauthorized purposes. S&P and any third-party providers, as well as their directors, officers, shareholders, employees or agents (collectively S&P Parties) do not guarantee the accuracy, completeness, timeliness or availability of the Content. S&P Parties are not responsible for any errors or omissions (negligent or otherwise), regardless of the cause, for the results obtained from the use of the Content, or for the security or maintenance of any data input by the user. The Content is provided on an "as is" basis. S&P PARTIES DISCLAIM ANY AND ALL EXPRESS OR IMPLIED WARRANTIES, INCLUDING, BUT NOT LIMITED TO, ANY WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY OR FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE OR USE, FREEDOM FROM BUGS, SOFTWARE ERRORS OR DEFECTS, THAT THE CONTENT'S FUNCTIONING WILL BE UNINTERRUPTED OR THAT THE CONTENT WILL OPERATE WITH ANY SOFTWARE OR HARDWARE CONFIGURATION. In no event shall S&P Parties be liable to any party for any direct, indirect, incidental, exemplary, compensatory, punitive, special or consequential damages, costs, expenses, legal fees, or losses (including, without limitation, lost income or lost profits and opportunity costs or losses caused by negligence) in connection with any use of the Content even if advised of the possibility of such damages.

Credit-related and other analyses, including ratings, and statements in the Content are statements of opinion as of the date they are expressed and not statements of fact. S&P's opinions, analyses and rating acknowledgment decisions (described below) are not recommendations to purchase, hold, or sell any securities or to make any investment decisions, and do not address the suitability of any security. S&P assumes no obligation to update the Content following publication in any form or format. The Content should not be relied on and is not a substitute for the skill, judgment and experience of the user, its management, employees, advisors and/or clients when making investment and other business decisions. S&P does not act as a fiduciary or an investment advisor except where registered as such. While S&P has obtained information from sources it believes to be reliable, S&P does not perform an audit and undertakes no duty of due diligence or independent verification of any information it receives. Rating-related publications may be published for a variety of reasons that are not necessarily dependent on action by rating committees, including, but not limited to, the publication of a periodic update on a credit rating and related analyses.

To the extent that regulatory authorities allow a rating agency to acknowledge in one jurisdiction a rating issued in another jurisdiction for certain regulatory purposes, S&P reserves the right to assign, withdraw or suspend such acknowledgment at any time and in its sole discretion. S&P Parties disclaim any duty whatsoever arising out of the assignment, withdrawal or suspension of an acknowledgment as well as any liability for any damage alleged to have been suffered on account thereof.

S&P keeps certain activities of its business units separate from each other in order to preserve the independence and objectivity of their respective activities. As a result, certain business units of S&P may have information that is not available to other S&P business units. S&P has established policies and procedures to maintain the confidentiality of certain non-public information received in connection with each analytical process.

S&P may receive compensation for its ratings and certain analyses, normally from issuers or underwriters of securities or from obligors. S&P reserves the right to disseminate its opinions and analyses. S&P's public ratings and analyses are made available on its Web sites, www.standardandpoors.com (free of charge), and www.ratingsdirect.com (subscription), and may be distributed through other means, including via S&P publications and third-party redistributors.
