

In preparation for Pompeii

Lecturer Marjorie Power will present a program, "The Last Days of Pompeii" at 1:30 p.m., Oct. 31, at St. Michael and All Angels Church to benefit of Two Women of the scholarship fund of the Women's Council of Dallas County. Mrs. Power will bring a model of a room from Pompeii and some artifacts of the 1st century, to coordinate with the opening of the Pompeii exhibit at the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts later this year.

Chairman of the women's council fundraiser, which is open to the public, is Mrs. Robert Thomas. Women's Council president is Mrs. G.C. Nabors, and public relations chairman is Mrs. Reuben Adams.

• The ballet season in Dallas kicked off Oct. 15 with the 1978 Southwest Ballet Gala consisting of performances by Dallas' own Metropolitan Ballet performing "Wand of Youth," the Delta Ballet of New Orleans performing "Cortege Italien," the Greater Houston Ballet performing "Moon Games" and the Fort Worth Ballet performing "Dance Rites."

The board of directors and officers of the Dallas Metropolitan Ballet hosted a reception afterward in the Swiss Avenue home of board member Michael Wayland Brown, where about 100 patrons showed up in support of ballet. Guest star was Australian gold medal winner of the International Ballet Competition, Danilo Radojovic.

• The Young Lawyers' Wives Club of Dallas Inc. is planning its fund-raiser Oct. 27 to benefit the L. Storey Stemmons Girls Foundation, Margaret L. Bale Day Nursery and Law Education.

A seminar, luncheon and style show are slated featuring Mrs. Charles Sharp and Mrs. Theodore Strauss. Moderator will be John Criswell.

• Latest nuptial notice: Janet Wayne Spencer will wed Lewis William Shaw. Janet, a former debutante, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Grady Spencer.

• The Dallas Genealogical Society was awarded the first Texas Heritage Award for Research in Austin

recently at the Second Annual Texas Heritage Conference. Past president of the society, Helen Lu, and five other members were on hand to receive the bronze plaque presented at a luncheon in Austin.

The award was for research the local genealogical group did concerning the microfilming of the first 3,100 probate packets of Dallas County for the period from 1846 to 1900.

• About 100 people showed up Oct. 7 at the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel for the Harvest Ball of the Kermis Club, a Dallas ballroom dancing club. Dr. Earle Williams, club president, formerly opened the club's 21st season.

• The Chi Omega Christmas is scheduled Oct. 25 and 26 in the ballroom of the Dallas Convention Center to raise money for the Special Care School for Handicapped Children and the Chi Omega Scholarship Fund at SMU. During the two days visitors will have an opportunity to do some pre-holiday shopping for gifts, which have all been donated by various Dallas merchants. Hours of the sale are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Oct. 25, and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. the following day. Tickets cost $2.50 in advance and $3 at the door. Chi Omega members hope to raise about $18,000 and expect about 3,000 persons to attend.

• Italian Sculptor Germano—whose works have been included in the collections of president John F. Kennedy, French president Charles de Gaulle and Princess Grace of Monaco—will be in Dallas. The sculptor's works range from life-size bronze statues to miniature pieces of gold jewelry. He is known for his art work in the Florentine tradition of Michelangelo and Leonardo da Vinci. Most appropriately he resides in Rome and has studios in Florence and Capri.

The opening of the gallery, called Germano Scultore in Old Town Village, marks the first direct retail outlet for his work in America.

• Dallasite Martha M. Lynch has been named a recipient of the Northwood Institute's Distinguished Women Awards of 1978, and she will accept the honor at a luncheon Nov. 9 in California.

Mrs. Lynch is being recognized for her efforts on behalf of children and the founding of Educational Opportunities Inc., her leadership in the development of Northwood and its patrons are expected to attend the Oct. 18 reception in Germano's honor at the Aldredge House on size bronze statues to miniature pieces of gold jewelry. He is known for his art work in the Florentine tradition of Michelangelo and Leonardo da Vinci. Most appropriately he resides in Rome and has studios in Florence and Capri. The opening of the gallery, called Germano Scultore in Old Town Village, marks the first direct retail outlet for his work in America.

recognized for her efforts on behalf of children and the founding of Educational Opportunities Inc., her leadership in the development of Northwood and its patrons are expected to attend the Oct. 18 reception in Germano's honor at the Aldredge House on size bronze statues to miniature pieces of gold jewelry. He is known for his art work in the Florentine tradition of Michelangelo and Leonardo da Vinci. Most appropriately he resides in Rome and has studios in Florence and Capri. The opening of the gallery, called Germano Scultore in Old Town Village, marks the first direct retail outlet for his work in America.

World Affairs. Other positions she has held include past president of the Lyceum Club, Dallas Symphony Orchestra League and the Woman's Board of the Dallas Civic Opera. Mrs. Lynch also has served on the advisory boards of the Dallas County Heritage Society and the Crystal Charity Ball and is a trustee of the Dallas Theater Center and the Dallas Symphony Orchestra.

She is one of 10 women being honored for their individual achievements in the areas of business, education, community service, the arts, humanitarianism and service to the college.

• The paintings of Dallas artist Joseph Sanger Linz were exhibited in his first formal show when the 2719 Gallery launched its 14th exhibition season with an open house Oct. 15. Works of Houston artist Michael Piliie were also displayed. Paintings by the two artists will be featured through Nov. 4.

Linz, who favors the post-impressionist period in his works, has been painting full time for about five or six years, according to gallery owner Rual Askew. The artist previously was involved in the Linz jewelry business, which was founded by his grandfather. Linz' relatives include the Sanger family, founders of the Dallas department stores.

• The Seventh Annual Designers Show-house gala preview party took place Oct. 14 at the Caruth Homeplace, Northwest Highway and Central Expressway at Caruth Haven. Sponsored by Kappa Alpha Theta, proceeds from the affair benefit the Dallas Society for Crippled Children, the Institute of Lopedics, Old City Park and the Kappa Alpha Theta Scholarship Fund.